–Let’s talk about

Matrimonial

The Pitmans’ Perspective on: Matrimonial

“We never forget emotions are involved.”

What we do: Divorce; judicial separation; civil partnership disputes and all financial and children matters arising from the breakdown of a relationship. collaborative law; pre-nuptial contracts; cohabitation agreements; cohabiting couple disputes (particularly claims against property-trust of land claims); Inheritance Act claims and change of name deeds.

Our expertise: It is important to obtain expert legal advice regarding all legal matters relating to the breakdown of relationships. It is a very stressful and emotional time for everyone involved, so it is important to ensure that quality advice is sought from lawyers who are experts in their field and understand the need to be supportive. Our Family team is headed by Partner Marian Lynch, with over 25 years experience in dealing with all aspects of divorce, matrimonial finance and separation issues. She also sits as a Deputy District Judge and is a trained collaborative lawyer. All our family lawyers are members of the Resolution (formerly Solicitors Family Law Association) and in accordance with its code of practice aim to achieve swift and amicable resolutions in the most cost-effective way possible.

Our service: Our approach is professional and compassionate. The Family Department offer constructive and practical advice rather than an unnecessarily confrontational approach. In order to protect our clients’ privacy, we insist upon total discretion at all times. The skills and experience of our Family team means that we can promote the use of round table meetings between parties as well as the traditional method of solicitor correspondence. The approach will be tailor made to suit the individual case and circumstances.

How we are different: Pitmans has highly successful Corporate, Commercial, Real Estate, Pensions and Private Tax & Family Business Departments that are available at all times to give expert advice when required by the Family team, and for example when family businesses or trusts are involved. Clients of our Family Department find our ability to provide such a fully comprehensive service a great advantage.
