Planning

The Pitmans’ Perspective on: Planning

“Timely delivery is the key to success and added value.”

What we do: Our specialist areas of expertise include section 106 agreements and unilateral undertakings; certificates of lawfulness of existing or proposed use or development; High Court challenges and judicial review; planning enforcement; tree preservation orders; affordable housing; definitive map - footpaths and bridleways; compulsory purchase; listed buildings and conservation areas; village greens; planning conditions; permitted development; use classes.

Who we act for: Housebuilders and property developers, banks and financial institutions, retailers and private clients.

Our expertise: We offer a wide range of experience and a first-class reputation in this specialist area of law. We have developed a constructive and effective working relationship with many local authorities throughout the UK. This is reflected in the success that the team has had in areas such as negotiating and varying section 106 planning obligations, applications for certificates of lawfulness and planning enforcement matters.

Our service: We work closely with the Firm’s Corporate and Real Estate teams providing contentious and non-contentious advice to clients across a wide range of planning issues.

How we are different: Our work is highly rated. In 2009 and 2010, we were ranked Band 1 in the Chambers Guide to UK to Legal Profession and Sue Crowther, leader of our team, was rated Leader in Planning. She was commended by clients for her “excellent knowledge and keen eye for detail.”
